Questions and comments from the floor
- 11.45 - 12.50 Implementing the draft service model: commissioning, personalisation and lessons from fast track sites
Following the formation of Transforming Care Partnerships, what are the next steps for commissioning effective services which deliver better community care, and what are the prospects for co-producing a new service model with patients and families? What lessons can be learnt from the Care Act implementation and progress made by 'New care models' vanguard sites in devising the new service model? How can challenges in creating a statutory obligation to carry out Care and Treatment Reviews, such as workforce development, be overcome across secondary care? What opportunities exist for expanding personalised care in light of the Integrated Personal Commissioning pilots and the proposed wider roll out of personal health budgets for people with learning disabilities? How can care homes, with pressure on staffing and funding, meet the demand for greater care in the community? With NICE currently consulting on guidelines for supporting older people with a learning disability, what more needs to be done to support a growing number of older people with learning disabilities? How should data and technology be harnessed effectively to improve the knowledge base and the quality of care for people with learning disabilities and/or autism?
Dr David Fearnley, Joint Medical Director, Mersey Care NHS Trust and Calderstones Partnership NHS Foundation Trust and Associate National Clinical Director for Secure Mental Health Services, NHS England
