With plans in place to expand uptake of budgets to 100,000 by 2020, what further steps should be taken to ensure that PHBs are financially viable and fulfilling the priorities of Sustainability and Transformation Plans (STPs)? What more can be done to improve the adoption of personal health budgets, and how can issues around NHS Continuing Healthcare eligibility assessments be reconciled with the planned expansion? How might the dissemination to patients on available services and eligibility criteria be improved? What impact has widening areas of care covered by budgets, such as mental health, learning disabilities and maternity care, had on improving self management of care and patient choice? With NHS England publishing guidance for IT companies on the rolling out integrated personal commissioning PHBs, what is the potential for personalised health software to assist in prioritising high needs individuals, monitoring spending and supporting an integrated marketplace?
