Questions and comments from the floor
- 9.50 - 10.45 Transforming primary care: commissioning and service delivery
In light of plans proposed by NHS England for co-commissioning of primary care, does more need to be done to avoid conflict of interests for GPs involved in both commissioning and delivery, and what are the other challenges for collaboration between Clinical Commissioning Groups (CCGs) and local area teams? What is the likely impact of the new models of care outlined in NHS England's Five Year Forward View on improving patient experience and delivering better value for money? How can the Better Care Fund best be implemented to ensure effective integration of primary care services at a local level? What are the early indications for the Proactive Care Programme in ensuring that personalised, joined-up care and support meets the requirements of patients with the most complex health and care needs? What are the next steps for greater engagement with the third sector and community groups in service delivery? Following the introduction of the Prime Minister's Challenge Fund, what lessons can be learnt from the pilots and what further opportunities exist for innovative technology in improving access to primary care services?

Questions and comments from the floor
- 11.40 - 12.30 Opportunities and challenges for the GP profession
What impact will changes in the GP contract for 2015/16, including the requirement for a named accountable GP responsible for coordinating each patient's care, and the expansion of online services for patients, have on reducing bureaucracy and allowing GPs more time to focus on the needs of individual patients? How can GP practices best deliver 7-day services, recently promised by Government by 2020, whilst ensuring resources are effectively utilised? What lessons can be learnt from the introduction of the Friends and Family Test in providing feedback to practices, and what are the next steps for improving patient-centred care? With NHS England phasing out the minimum practice income guarantee, should more be done to provide additional financial support to practices in deprived areas? What impact will publication of practice earnings from April 2015 have on patients' engagement with primary care and practitioners? With Health Education England required to allocate 50% of postgraduate medical training places for general practice, does more need to be done to ensure the target of 3,250 GP trainees a year is met?
