With local authorities required to transition by April 2018 to reforms outlined in the SEND Code of Practice, how successfully has the code of practice been implemented and what can be done to support local authorities making the transition? Following the closing of the stage 2 consultation on the High Needs National Funding Formula in March which requires schools to submit an online application for each high needs pupil whose provision exceeds £6,000 per annum, how can concerns expressed by schools over a lack of resources and capacity be mitigated? With a further £215 million of government funding being provided to support local authorities to create new places and improve facilities at existing schools, what steps can be taken to ensure that local authorities utilise funding to ensure the most significant benefit for SEND services?
