- 9.25 - 10.15 Responding to funding pressures in children's services: best practice in early intervention, leadership and the use of data analytics
In view of reports of a potential £2 billion funding gap in children's services by 2020 and concerns regarding increased dependence on unstable sources of funding, how can the Government address concerns about the impact on service provision for vulnerable children, particularly in terms of the future of early intervention services? With Ofsted's finding that strong leadership is vital for improvement in children's services, how can barriers to developing high-quality leadership, including a lack of professional development, be overcome? How can data - such as predictive analytics - be best used to support efficient and effective decision making by commissioners and front-line professionals, and what examples of best practice exist?
Enver Solomon, Director of External Affairs, National Children's Bureau
Peter Hay, former Strategic Director for People, Birmingham City Council
Tom Symons, Principal Researcher, Nesta
Wajid Shafiq, Chief Executive Officer, Xantura
Questions and comments from the floor with Councillor Richard Watts, Leader, Islington Council and Chair, Children and Young People Board, Local Government Association
- 10.15 - 10.45 The Innovation Programme: lessons from the first round of projects and priorities for the second round
Following the announcement of funding for a second wave of projects under the Children's Social Care Innovation Fund, what can be learnt from the first round of evaluations - such as in service integration and mobilising leadership at all levels - that could be translated into lessons for other contexts and what should be the policy priorities for the future of the programme? How can children's services create environments ready for innovation, and how can innovative projects be supported to produce long-term, sustainable changes?
Robert Mack, Children, Families & Young People Service Manager, Compass Service, Norfolk & Suffolk NHS Foundation Trust
Dr Nicholas Yeates, Consultant Psychologist, Child, Family and Young Peoples' Mental Health Service, Norfolk & Suffolk NHS Foundation Trust
Pamela Dow, Chief Reform Officer, Catch 22

Lisa Pascoe, Deputy Director, Social Care Policy, Ofsted
Questions and comments from the floor
- 11.40 - 12.35 The future for service reform in children's social care: local authority improvement and new service models
As the Government develops an improvement system for local authority children's services, what should be the priorities for reforming failing services in local authority control; how can support be individualised and targeted and best practice effectively shared between councils? Following concerns raised by the Education Select Committee in the last Parliament that the removal of children's services from local authority control is as yet unsupported by an evidence base, what has been the progress in areas where new models are being tested and what lessons can be learnt from their experiences? How can barriers to collaboration between local authorities in children's services, such as political differences, be overcome? In light of the development of Sustainability and Transformation Plans, what is the future of service integration in children's services and how might further integration be encouraged?
Tony Oakman, Deputy Chief Executive and Strategic Director for People, Dudley Metropolitan Borough Council
Paul Moffat, Chief Executive, Doncaster Children's Services Trust
