- 9.55 - 10.40 Perspectives on the review and the future of social care funding
What impact would revised funding recommendations, including the proposals that social care costs in England should be capped so people do not face losing a large percentage of their assets, have on home, nursing home and community-based care? What should be done to protect and support those unable to meet the capped costs? What should be done to ensure that service users are at the heart of future social care policy and reform? Going forward, what should be the role for local government and social services in the delivery of social care?
Peter Hay, President, Association of Directors of Adult Social Services (ADASS)
Professor Peter Beresford, Professor of Social Policy and Director, Centre for Citizen Participation, Brunel University
Ray Boyce, Head of Older People's Services, Southwark Council

- 11.45 - 12.25 Integrating health and social care: driving up quality and standards
What more should be done to promote and achieve integration as emphasised in Government reforms? What can be done to ensure that the integration of health and social care services is best managed and does not lead to loss of expertise in the social care sector? What does best practice in health and social care work look like, and what more can be done to promote the dissemination of best practice across the public and private sector? With NICE set to take a greater role in the setting of quality standards in social care, what are the implications for providers of care and existing social care regulators? At a time when many of the main stakeholders in social care are changing roles, what should be done to ensure that no momentum is lost when seeking to drive up quality and standards?
